have made for us the best lot of good clothes ever brought together in this town. New colorings—grays, blues, purple blues, tans, olives and browns. New patterns in tweeds, cheviots, homespuns, worsteds, serges silk mixtures; imported fabrics of many choice textures. The new models for young men include one, two and three-button styles, with medium and long roll lapels; the modified English sack with snug shoulders; the high-cut five and six-button waistcoats; and of course, the well known and always popular Varsity; the Shape-maker and others.

It's a great lot of fine merchandise. We're glad to be able to serve you with such goods. We can take good care of any man in these Suits from $15.00 up; and in Overcoats from $12.00 up

> You'll get here, also, a fine lot of Shirts; you'll need some this Spring. New Neckwear, also. New shapes and styles in Soft and Stiff Hats. The "New" idea prevails. Come and look it over

THE SPRING FLOODS.

Just what, if anything, can be done by the communities directly affected or by the state or national government, to remove the flood menace, is not yet clear.

Able men, financially interested, as well as men interested from a scientific standpoint, and big-hearted philanthropists. however, have realized for some time that the regular annual floods in our rivers and larger streams and the enormous property damage entailed, the loss of life and the menace to health which are incident thereto, presented a problem which wild make that may not be reared demanded solution

During the last decade just as soon as winter breaks and the early spring rains begin, torrents of water rush into the rivers and creeks, levees give way, low lands, both in the city and rural districts are submerged, and the work of destruction is begun by the elements on a gigantic scale.

The loss generally falls, especially in the cities, upon people who can ill afford it, as the poorer classes generally occupy the Along the ground, lower ground, rendered cheaper because of the flood menace Frequently the small merchant or modest householder loses Just that one mement in the spring his all and annually he suffers a severe loss

These mighty and destructive floods were not long ago an The exception, now they are the rule.

The work of man in reclaiming the land swamp land by drainage systems and forest land by clearing -in order that it might be made tillable and productive, has perhaps, beer the prime cause of rushing the water into the streams all at once. and causing floods. The constant aim has been to get the water off the ground at once in the swamps and the drainage systems have in a large measure accomplished that purpose,

Man having contributed so largely to the disastrons conditions which now exist, he is compelled to face and must solve the flood problem.

Just how it is to be done is another question. That conditions are now beyond the individual to remedy is almost a rtain, but that some means must be devised and executed which will do away with the flood menace which is an annual visite along the shores of waterways great and small is beyond dis | Indiana Fair Friday and probably

A RATIONAL CALENDAR

The calendar and the hours of the day seem to most of ns almost like part of the natural and immutable order things, and however much trouble the present indefensible system caused, men have felt that it was rash-almost impious saturday, not much change in tem--to suggest a change in it.

Gregorian calendar was introduced into Great Britain.

From the days of Julius Caesar to our own, he has been a bold reformer indeed who would suggest changes in the disorderly procession of the months.

Now enters Moses B. Cotsworth of Victoria, B. C., with a proposal for a rational calendar. He would divide the year into thirteen months, each of twenty-eight days, which would leave one extra day in the year, and this he beautifully plans as a free day for every one-free from interest charges on money, the necessity to work, the wage scale, etc.

Then each month would commence on Sunday and the first, eighth, fifteenth and twenty-second days of each month would be Sundays. President Hadley of Yale is quoted as saying that the month of four weeks "will come as a commercial necessity." The adjustment to the change would be very small compared to that necessitated when standard time was introduced on transcontinental railways.

Mr. Cotsworth has literature to distribute, poking fun at learn: "Thirty days hath September."
